They're Presidentially Fit

By Linda Corbett

"I never got into anything until after I was 70," says Mrs. Ola Coleman of Andover.

"I never got into anything until after I was 80," her bowling pal, Mrs. Isabel Valentine, shoots back.

The ladies, bright-eyed and obviously fit, were discussing why they had just received the Presidential Sports Award -- for the admirable feat of bowling 150 games in less than four months, at the Andover Lanes.

Mrs. Valentine, who readily admits to 85 (slightly more than her bowling average of 78 to 82) took up the game about four years ago, when she joined the Andover Haven Associates.

"Once I got two strikes in a row," she adds, "when I was wearing new shoes. But it never happened again."

Mrs. Coleman, who bowls "about 80 with good luck" (her top game is 112), bowled "50-odd years ago," but hadn't tried it again until about a year and a half ago.

They bowl regularly on Wednesday mornings with the Haven group, but for the Presidential Sports Award, they bowled five lines on two more days a week. For all that exercise, they received a certificate signed by the President, an arm patch, and a pin.

"The thing that gets me is the 'Richard Nixon' on the bottom," says Mrs. Valentine, who came to Andover in 1906 from Scotland. "Yes, and I'm going to have to buy a jacket to wear it on," chimes Mrs. Coleman, a resident here for about 50 years.

Harold Johnson, owner-manager of the lanes, took care of all the paperwork for the contest, which was co-sponsored by the President's Council of Physical Fitness and Sports and the National Bowling Council. He takes pride in his two winners, adding that the contest was open to anyone over 18 -- and no one under 70 took the prizes.

This is the first year that bowling has been included in the fitness awards, he went on. "The thing about it is that anyone of any age can do it."

Activity, however, is not new to Mrs. Valentine, who used to do a lot of running -- she ran the 50 yard dash at Rockingham when she was a young woman of 35. She also played basketball with a group to make money to add a gym onto the old Andover Guild, now the "Y" building.

Mrs. Valentine has three children, Mrs. May Robbins, Mrs. Edith St. Jean and Ronald Valentine, all of Andover; nine grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Coleman has two children, Mrs. Barbara Young of Bath, Maine, and Bob Gray of Ballardvale; four grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

"To give you an idea of the energy these gals have," adds Mrs. Janet Lake of The Council on Aging, "on Sunday they walked all the way from down town out to the Bird Sanctuary, walked around the preserve, and then walked home again. They walk everywhere."

Both drop in several days a week at The Haven, where their favorite activities, outside of bowling, are Scrabble and picture puzzles.

Mrs. Coleman, who is president of the Haven Associates, adds, "If you bowl three days a week, there's not too much time left for other things."

IGA, Selectmen Differ On Utility Cost Payments

Representatives of Cressey-Dockham, who plan to build a three-warehouse complex at Lowell Junction, appealed to the Board of Selectmen Tuesday night to take on more of their $90,000 water and sewage costs.

Cressey-Dockham, a division of International Grocers Associates (IGA), has a spring, 1974, target to get the warehouses into operation, with a complement of 70 trucks and about 300 employees.

Lester Oppenheim, treasurer of Cressey-Dockham, said Tuesday night that his firm had expected all along that both water and sewer would be paid in full by the town, but has since learned that $75,000 of the amount is to be returned to the town via betterments.

Calling it a "misunderstanding or lack of good faith on the part of the Town," he said Cressey-Dockham would be good citizens, "but we might not have been citizens at all if we had had this understanding from the beginning."

Roger W. Collins, Selectman chairman, said that when the Board put the $90,000 into the Town Warrant in March, "we did state we would give you so much money. It was not said that we would pay for the whole thing."

"The spirit of cooperation," he said, "was that the Selectmen would hurry to get it into the Town Meeting so you could get it as soon as possible."

Selectman Milton Greenberg also called it a "giant miscommunication" and said he shared Oppenheim's concern that "you're getting a just division of this assessment."

But, he said the board followed a set pattern that brought facilities to the borderline of certain properties. That pattern, he said, has the developer paying all the cost of water, plus two-thirds of the costs of sewer. The town, he said, pays one-third, which in this case would bring the sewer from the access at Gillette, under the railroad tracks to the Fitzgerald property.

"Far more important than dollars is the faith and honor of the town," Oppenheim said, insisting that there had been a spirit of cooperation back in February, before the Town Meeting, and that "no one mentioned something like betterments."

Constable Issue Is Tabled

A request to name Phillips Academy's security men special constables, enabling them to act as crossing guards on South Main St., was tabled by the Board of Selectmen Tuesday night for legal opinions on the liability of the town.

Discussion centered on the powers of arrest, which go along with appointment as special constable. The PA police are already empowered by the State to make arrests on Phillips property, but not on a public way.

Chief Daniel Guiney of the PA security police said his men would never make arrests while directing traffic unless so directed by Andover Police Chief David L. Nicoll.

However, Selectman Alan French contended that the town would be liable if one of Guiney's men did make such an arrest.

At their last meeting, the Selectmen named Raytheon security men as special con-

Letter Initiated Library Founding

The Memorial Hall Library, which celebrates its 100th anniversary next week, began with a letter from overseas back in the days when the wounds of the Civil War were still fresh and the idea of a free library was just becoming popular.

In July, 1870, John Smith, a wealthy Andover mill owner, then traveling in Germany, wrote a letter to his son, and the letter might be considered the birth of the Memorial Hall Library.

He said, "You mention in your last letter received here that there was nothing yet done with the lots up town where the buildings were burned. I have thought that the corner lot, where Joseph Abbott's stood, would be a fine place for a Memorial Hall to be built upon . . . to keep in remembrance the names of those who gave up their lives in defending our flag and saving my adopted country to God and Liberty."

Smith then proposed to head a subscription list for the purchase

Western Electric is not only the top taxpayer in North Andover, it contributes to the town and the greater Lawrence community in more subtle ways.

Many of the 10,000 employees give their time in a wide variety of local government positions and on charitable organizations.

As often as individuals from Western Electric volunteer or run for an office, local organizations come to the company asking to 'borrow' an executive to advise them.

And there are many requests for financial donations and for furniture that Western no longer needs.

The company not only wants but stimulates interest and activity in the local community, said John Connors, who is in charge of public relations at the Merrimack Valley plant. But they are also careful that

Sharing A Community Interest

Western Electric people do not dominate any group.

All employees who are involved with community projects must be mindful that there must be no conflict of interest and that as individuals they do not speak for the company. "We try to be very careful about this," said Connors.

"Our main business is to run the plant," explained Connors, "but we do try to help the community."

Two local selectmen are Western Electric employees; Joseph A. Guthrie is Chairman of the North Andover Board of Selectmen and Edmund Sullivan serves on the Andover Board.

Haverhill Councilors Ray DeMatteo and Ted Pelori are Western Electric men.

The President of the Lawrence Chamber of Commerce, Bill Banton, works for Western.

Connors, a North Andover resident, is on the Greater Lawrence Mental Health Board.

Don Hevehan is treasurer of the Greater Lawrence Community Drug Council, which Western Electric was instrumental in founding.

Western also participates in executive loan programs, which means that a man will devote all his time to a community oriented program while remaining on Western's payroll.

A very small example of community involvement: an Explorer Troop of Boy Scouts who are sons of employees meet at the plant. In a move that could be considered as a breakthrough of a male bastion, daughters will be invited to join the troop this year.

"We get easily 500 calls and letters a year for assistance," said Connors. Clearly local organizations are mindful of the intellectual resources at the Rte. 125 plant.

Organizations also ask for material gifts. Connors keeps a file of requests and when, for instance, a set of cafeteria tables and chairs become obsolete at the plant he is aware of who may be able to use them. There are many, many more requests than can be filled.

The organizations that the company will help must be non-profit and serve the general community. There can be no political or direct religious interests in any group the company assists.

To list the local organizations that benefit from Western Electric Employees would be a Herculean if not impossible task. Local hospitals, town and city governments, youth programs, school committees, mental health programs - all have volunteers who work at Western Electric.

Economists can talk about tax paying and job creating, but the benefits a large company can bring to a community are not all so easily measured. The spirit of cooperation and wisdom that Western Electric has shown in lending employees and the individuals who volunteer their services and who run for elective offices in the community are an intangible, but great, asset.

Determination moves a man forward - stubbornness causes him to stand still.

Retailers Plan For Year

The Retail Task Force of the Andover Chamber of Commerce formulated plans for the year at their annual dinner meeting last Thursday at the Lanam club.

Theme for the year will be to welcome shoppers to Downtown Andover, promoting the service and personal touch offered by Andover retailers.

As part of the program, the local merchants will be participating in a bus program which will allow North Andover residents to travel to Andover and return and receive validated tickets for the trip on the Trombly Motor Coach service.

Christmas promotions were also discussed and it was decided that stores generally would be open evenings beginning Monday, Dec. 10.

A new Christmas lighting program was explained by Kenneth P. Thompson, who headed a subcommittee on the matter. Lights will be strung on the small trees in the business district, the large tree at the police box in Elm Square and on two trees at the municipal parking lot. Standard, natural wreaths will be placed on stores throughout the downtown area.

Charles Heseltine is chairman of the task force this year. He has headed the successful sidewalk bazaar programs of the past few years, this event planned again for next June.

of land and building and an endowment to "take care of the Library."

The Town had voted to raise the sum of $4,500 for a soldiers' monument in April, 1866. The money had been put aside and almost forgotten. It was to come to the rescue of the Building Committee of the Memorial Hall Library which purchased land and in 1871 employed J.F. Egton as architect.

In the cornerstone, laid on Sept. 19, was a list of all the Andover men enrolled in the Army and Navy during the War of the Rebellion and of the forty-six who gave up their lives. The first board of trustees was appointed at town meeting in 1872 and during that summer purchased 2700 books.

The hall was formally opened on May 30, 1873. After a dinner at the Elm House, a procession, escorted by returned soldiers and the Andover Brass Band, marched to the South Church for dedication exercises.

In 1927 the Victorian roofline was modified to a Georgian design and a Children's Room was added. This room was enlarged in 1961 and the current reading room addition was completed in 1966.

Today the Memorial Hall Library circulates over 319,000 items a year. Not only books leave the building but records, cassettes, tapes, slides, films, talking books, books in braille, large-print books, magnifying readers, framed prints and works of sculpture.

Microfilm and microfiche are available for research. The Audio-Visual Department loans projectors, tape recorders and cassette players. The Children's Room is bustling. Exhibits, lectures and arts and crafts festivals are only a few of the activities sponsored by Memorial.

But there was a day when an iron fence surrounded the front of the building to keep out wandering cows and the horse watering trough had a faucet and cup for the drivers.

Party To Launch Anniversary

A birthday party will launch Memorial Hall Library's One Hundredth Anniversary week on Sunday, Oct. 14.

The Friends of the Library invite the public to its open house and tea from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

A program of chamber music will be followed by refreshments and music by recorders Susan Lloyd, Alan French, Peggy Wright and Matthew Myszewski. Flower arrangements will be contributed by the Garden clubs of Andover. Visitors are encouraged to see the special displays and exhibits featuring events and life in the Civil War period.

A gift of $100 will be presented by the Friends for the purpose of strengthening the Andover history book collection.

Chairman of the party is Theda Leonard.

Special programs have been planned for each day of the Anniversary week.

"Inside Memorial Hall Library," a film produced by Stephen Marks, will be shown Monday, Oct. 15 at 8 p.m. The Andover Jazz Trio will play Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. "Books and Things" will be the subject of Philip K. Allen's lecture Wednesday at 8 p.m. Stephen Halpert the author of "Brahmins and BullyBoys," will talk about "Boston and Its Changing Faces" Thursday at 8 p.m. and on Friday "The Cat People," film for young adults, will be shown.

In the Children's Room, Frank Dalton's slide tape "My Own Stories for Children" will be featured at 7 p.m. on Wednesday and a program of folksinging (grade one and up) is scheduled for Thursday at 7 p.m.

Award

"You don't have to do anything to join The Haven," Mrs. Valentine contributes. "You just walk in."

Mrs. Valentine is also treasurer of the bowling group, from which she recently received a pink and gold trophy on display at The Haven. About twice a year the bowling group takes its "kit-ty" and has a nice dinner out somewhere.

"It's such a wonderful sport," she goes on. "I feel so good. 100 per cent. Like a million dollars."

And, needless to say, the gals hope to bowl their way to the Presidential fitness awards again next year.

stables, after a promise that they would not exercise that power.

"It's not the case of not wanting to help, but getting it in writing properly so as to keep the cost down and not jeopardize the liability of the town," said Selectman Chairman Roger Collins.

If the town were to provide protection, it had been roughly estimated that it would cost $50,000 to $60,000.

In any case, Chief Nicoll said, if the town doesn't appoint the men as special constables, it must make other arrangements for crossing protection.

Geothermal steam is now powering Mexican electrical generators in Bajo, California. By 1983 the capacity of the Cerro Prieto complex is expected to supply electricity for two million people, the Massachusetts Audubon Society says.

Early Music Ensemble In Concert

An unusual musical experience is coming to Phillips Academy on Friday, Oct. 19. The St. Lawrence University Early Music Ensemble from Canton, N.Y. will give a concert of German music of the middle ages and Renaissance, performed on authentic historical instruments. The Early Music Ensemble is a select group of versatile student musicians who specialize in learning the music and performance techniques of Medieval and Renaissance music; instruction in early instruments is a regular part of St. Lawrence's musical activities.

The group, founded three years ago, is making its second annual tour; they have also given numerous performances at St. Lawrence University and in the surrounding communities. Their extensive repertoire includes music of the thirteenth through the seventeenth centuries from England, Germany, France and other European countries. The ensemble uses copies of authentic early instruments from the University's Emily Romer Instrumental Collection; this collection includes recorders, crumhorns, flutes, shawns, viols and other instruments used before 1700.

The program on Oct. 19 will include minstrel songs, sacred music of Martin Luther's time, bawdy street songs and rousing dances.

The ensemble is directed by David Berry of the St. Lawrence Music Faculty.

This performance will be held in Kemper Auditorium at 8 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend. There is no charge for admission.

Dancing Exercises Scheduled

One of the highlights of the Fall Term program of the Andover-North Andover YMCA is a Dance Exercise class which will begin on Oct. 18 and will include eight weekly sessions on Thursdays 10:30-11:30 a.m. at the Andover YMCA gym. Instructor Mrs. Janet Cooper will lead a "Rockette" line in dance steps to music for exercise and fun. A similar program was conducted last Spring and proved very popular.

On Wednesdays 10:30-11:30 a.m. at the North Andover YMCA building Miss Meri Hanson is leading a beginners' class in interpretive dancing. This class is already under way, but late registrants are welcome.

Child care service is available at the same buildings for both programs. Registrations are being accepted only at the Andover YMCA building on a first come basis.

Sanborn PTA Begins Year

The Sanborn School P.T.A. held a Pot Luck supper Wednesday, Oct. 3, in the school's cafetorium with about 100 parents and teachers attending.

Mrs. John Wragg, who was in charge of arrangements for the supper, plans to make available to parents the recipes for the dishes that were served.

The principal of Sanborn School, Joseph M. Normandy, Jr., introduced the faculty, with several new members, to parents.

The P.T.A.'s plans for the year were discussed. There will be parent-teacher conferences on Nov. 7 and 14 in the evening and on Nov. 5 and 12 in the afternoon. The December meeting will include an exhibit of the children's art work.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

CHICKEN CACCIATORE

1 3-pound frying chicken
2 tablespoons of flour
salt and pepper to taste
1 large onion, sliced thin
1 clove of garlic, minced
½ cup chopped carrots
½ cup of celery chopped
2 chicken bouillon cubes crushed

3 tablespoons chopped parsley
½ cup canned tomatoes, crushed with liquid
1½ cups hot chicken broth
½ cup dry red wine
1 teaspoon of oregano
1 teaspoon marjoram 1¾ ounce can stems and pieces mushrooms

Cut chicken into serving pieces and roll in the flour. Brown it on all sides in butter or oil over medium heat, turning often to keep it from sticking or burning. Turn heat to low and add all other ingredients. Cover and simmer for 30 minutes, or until chicken is fork-tender. If more liquid is required during cooking to keep chicken from becoming dry, add more of the tomatoes and another ¼ cup of chicken broth. Serves four to six.

From the pen of Scotty McPinch

Tip: fresh parsley kept in a covered jar with 1 tablespoon of water and refrigerated will keep for at least 2 weeks.

Garrett Players Present 'Death Of A Salesman'

The Garrett Players is presenting as its next bill, on Oct. 12, 13, 14 and 19, 20 and 21, one of the most honored of American plays, "Death of a Salesman." This dramatic hit won the coveted Pulitzer Prize and also the New York Drama Critics Circle Award the year it was first produced in New York.

Written by Arthur Miller, the drama reveals the crucial events of 24 hours in the life of one Willy Loman, an aging traveling salesman who had sold himself a bill of dishonest goods. Willy deceived himself into thinking that it was not what you did but how you did it that counted in life.

The story is told in a series of varied settings that flash-back into the lives of Willy, his wife, his two sons, and many people who influenced his career as salesman, husband, father, so that this one day is a summary of the man's whole life.

Richard Seguin will have the part of Willy Loman, the bewildered, uncertain, frustrated, raging, broken man who has followed false standards. He is a man who had to be a failure, because of his fatally false image of himself. Mr. Seguin, who for the past three years has been awarded the Best Actor Award at the New England Theatre Conference Drama Festival, will use his acting expertise to bring alive the character of Willy Loman. Mr. Seguin has been active with the Garrett Players for several years. Most recently he was seen as Scratch in the play of the same title, he also appeared in "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running." Besides his numerous acting credits, Mr. Seguin has also done some directing and has been on the Garrett executive board.

Appearing as the loyal, merciful helpmate of the defeated salesman will be Mrs. Nita Froelich of Salem. This is Mrs. Froelich's second season with the Garrett Players having appeared in "I'll Be Home for Christmas," a segment of "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running" last season.

Roger O. Dubois of Lowell and Gary Gregory of North Reading will play the two wayward, misfit sons of Willy and Linda Loman, both of whom know their father is a phoney and hate him for it. Roger O. Dubois will play Biff, the older son who really tries to rebel at what he is to become but doesn't want to be. Mr. Dubois, a graduate of Merrimack College, has been active in theatre since high school. While in college he appeared as John Proctor in "The Crucible," another Arthur Miller play, as well as being in "Krapp's Last Tape," and scenes from "Hamlet."

Uncle Ben, Willy's very successful brother, will be portrayed by Thomas Flanders of Methuen.

Charley, the Loman's compassionate next-door neighbor, and Bernard, his dopey son who made good, will be played by Armand Fillian and Gary T. Keating respectively.

Albert Wilbert of Haverhill will appear as Howard Wagner, Willy's boss. Mr. Wilbert spent a good deal of time working behind the scenes however he now is out in front. Prior to this role, Mr. Wilbert played Aaron Burr in "Scratch."

Also in the cast is Mrs. Pamela Palmer of Methuen who plays the Woman.

Other roles in this most highly praised American tragedy of our time will be Susan Leonard as Jenney, Richard Coppinger as Stanley, Mary Joyce Hudson as Miss Forsythe and Jean-Marie Barrille as Letta.

Directing this difficult, timeless drama is Paul E. Hart of Methuen.

This production is sponsored in part by support from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Friday and Saturday performances are at 8:30 p.m. Sunday performances are at 7:30 p.m. All performances are staged at the Garrett Theatre, Bavarian Hall, 41 Knox St., Lawrence.

What Our Readers Say-

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

After Andover Town Meeting's resounding defeat of the Flood Plain Zoning, I was surprised to read that the Planning Board was coming up for air again on the same issue. Flood Plain Zoning has to be one of the most hated Zoning Articles ever produced by the Planning Board. How often do we have to say "NO" to this type of zoning before the Planning Board gets the message. Do they think they can wear us down by proposing this zoning at every Town Meeting? I believe the more this zoning is exposed, an even greater number of people will realize how bad it is.

David Erickson of the Andover Planning Board in last week's letter and at Town Meeting presented some of the best reasons for avoiding Flood Plain Zoning. He has stated, in effect, that to stamp 575 acres as a Flood Plain Zone would mean that no one would buy a home or business in this zone, no Bank would finance in this Zone, no Insurance company would insure, and no improvements or maintenance would take place.

Such Zoning would be worse than Urban Renewal, for it would, in its effect, be confiscation of private property without compensation. It would create panic selling of property in this zone. It would produce blighted or slum conditions throughout the middle of Andover in a very short time.

And, all for what purpose - - to warn people that we have had one flood in the last 325 years and if they live in the area for another 100 years they might get their feet wet again? What an insignificant danger to our lives this threat is when compared to automobile accidents, crime, tornadoes, hurricanes, earthquakes, atomic devastation, insurrection, food poisoning, etc. etc.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Recently the School Committee has instituted a policy of compulsory achievement testing in our schools. It is clear that such tests can be of great value in assessing the strengths and weaknesses of certain specific areas of the curriculum if properly used. On the other hand achievement tests can be misleading and harmful because they present an oversimplified picture of the state of the school system. In the mind of the public there will be a tendency to use the scores as a measure of the whole school program - to equate high scores with good education, and vice versa - when in fact they measure only part, an important part to be sure but only part. For example they will measure math and reading skills, but I want to point out that the list of things which constitute good education go far beyond this. Comenius, the pioneer European educator wrote the following words in 1632:

"Our... wish is that every man should be wholly educated, rightly formed not only in one single matter or in a few or even in many, but in all things which perfect human nature..."

Today more than three hundred years later our concept of good education is much the same; we wish our children to be "wholly educated, and rightly formed." We want them to develop intellectually, but we also want them to develop socially and emotionally. The process of education should be the process of humanizing them. They should develop a positive self awareness, and an awareness of the needs and feelings of others as well. We want to encourage and bring out the best qualities in each of them - creativity, etc., and we want to inspire in them good citizenship, the ability to carry responsibility, and so on. These are the things for which achievement tests are woefully inadequate. They have their areas of validity but the limitations are very great, and to use them as a measure of the total school program would be a bad mistake.

In view of this I would like to propose two things. First that the School Committee, having made a wise decision in adopting basic skills achievement testing, now take steps to insure that these many other aspects of our school program which are equally important in reaching the goal of good education in Andover be given at least equal emphasis in the program of assessment presently under way and that the School Committee investigate ways of making periodic achievement testing or some other form of evaluation in this aspect of our children's education. Second, that the School Committee set up ways of informing the public about the scope and limitations of the achievement tests now in use.

14 Farrwood Drive

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

I am not a selfish citizen. My home is not in the proposed flood plain, but I am a concerned citizen interested in the welfare of Andover as a whole and also interested in individual citizens of Andover.

It is the statement in last week's TOWNSMAN, made by David M. Erickson, "If we have only had one flood in 325 years, it simply means that we are 2.25 floods behind. The odds of having a flood are increased." that make us, the interested citizens of Andover who defeated the flood plain plan so concerned over any of the validity of the flood plan proposed by the planning board. This statement by Mr. Erickson is completely erroneous. With probability the odds don't increase with each passing year, the odds remain at 1 per cent at each given year. The odds are still 1 per cent for the present time. A 1 per cent probability is considered to be by engineers insignificant. 1 per cent means that the hypothesis is almost certain never to occur. Nothing is considered important until it reaches at least 10 per cent and is generally required to be 30 per cent. This should be one of the considerations the citizens should weigh for or against a flood plain zone.

The planning board, who are not professional engineers or professional surveyors, have repeatedly made statements and presented plans which are inaccurate and completely unreasonable. I don't believe they are intentionally doing and saying these things, but are simply people who are not trained or qualified to formulate such complicated engineering and surveying projects.

The Corp of Engineers has set out a guideline to be used by professional engineers to survey the situation as it exists, with history and other engineering projects taken into consideration. The statement made at Town Meeting by a planning board member that dikes and dams which the Army Corps of Engineers have built don't do any good to control floods is another of their statements that makes one wonder about their wisdom and knowledge of this subject.

If indeed Andover does need a flood plain, it certainly doesn't need one the size that the Planning Board has suggested. Let's let the professionals do the job. The Planning Board had designated proposed flood plain areas in Andover which NEVER flooded and other areas which were flooded were not included. If we must have a flood plain running right through the Middle of Andover, let's have some legal, specifically defined mets and bounds and let's have it in areas where there is a real possibility of a flood - say 15 per cent to 20 per cent chance. Let's not have a half-baked plan, but a well defined and well engineered plan. A good plan will get my vote, but NEVER the mess we were presented with at the October 1, 1973 Town Meeting.

alcoholic detoxification unit this past week.

In one year the health care facility has treated over 2200 admissions from Greater Lawrence, Greater Haverhill and Newburyport.

Staffed by a team of doctors, nurses, social workers, counselors and attendants, the voluntary center has thrown open its doors to over 700 males and females ranging in age from 18 to 77 who were seeking help for their alcoholic disease.

Patients may be admitted directly to the unit on 32 Haverhill Street, Lawrence, at any hour of the day or night.

"Better than half of our admissions are persons who, though intoxicated, still find their way to our door searching for voluntary help for their illness," says Mary Psaledakis, project director.

"All other referrals are made by physicians, clergy, public agencies, concerned friends or the police. Police referrals account for about 20 per cent of admissions."

During the month of September, the unit treated 158 patients. Lawrence accounted for the largest number of admissions with 87 followed by Greater Haverhill, 25; Greater Lowell, 20; Andover, 10; North Andover and Methuen, 7 each; and 2 from Newburyport.

The first step in the five day treatment plan at the detox unit is to withdraw the patient safely from alcohol under medical supervision. The use of appropriate medication prevents the development of dangerous complications of withdrawal, such as hallucinations and convulsions commonly known as the DT's.

The next goal is to motivate the patient toward sobriety through individual counselling, group discussions, alcoholism information, A.A. meetings, discharge planning and referral to other agencies.

"One of our biggest concerns," says Ms. Psaledakis, "is the follow-up work which remains to be done after the patient leaves the unit. Many of these men and women walk out sober after five days into a hostile world where they are compelled to live in furnished rooms without jobs, without families and without hope. Their suffering families have long ago given up on them. Their employers have tired of repeatedly giving them 'that one last chance.' They are destitute of all the helps and supports we all need in order to live a normal healthy life."

Lawrence General Hospital and the Division of Alcoholism are joining together in a follow-up program by establishing a half-way house to provide recovering alcoholics with a period of time in which to rehabilitate themselves in a community setting upon leaving the detox unit.

Ms. Psaledakis believes the new Massachusetts law passed on July 1, 1973 repealing the crime of public drunkenness has helped the alcoholic in his recovery process.

"We have found the alcoholics who come into our center have a very poor self-image. They see themselves as 'bums,' 'drunks,' 'sinners,' rather than patients who have a disease like pneumonia or tuberculosis. With the new law, it is at least possible to point out to them that alcoholics are not criminals. That is one step in the right direction."

The project director also stressed that the area police have been most understanding and cooperative in helping to implement the new law.

The Detoxification Unit in Lawrence is jointly funded by Lawrence General Hospital and a grant from the Department of Public Health, Division of Alcoholism.

Training Enrollees Sought

Operation Mainstream, a program funded by the U.S. Department of Labor and sponsored by the Greater Lawrence Community Action Council is searching the Greater Lawrence and the Greater Haverhill area for on-the-job training enrollees.

This new program intends to place low income men and women in today's job market by establishing for them work experience which will be meaningful. In order to qualify for this program, a person must be at least 22 years of age and older, there is no age limit, and be unemployed to the extent that income be comparable to the Government's poverty standard guidelines. For further information call Director Guy (Terry) Kelley, II, Greater Lawrence Community Action Council, 301 Essex Street, Rm. 802, Lawrence; or Counselor/Coordinator Paul Shepherd, Haverhill Community Action Commission, 71 Primrose Road, Haverhill. Directors of Non-Profit Organizations who are in need of paid on-the-job trainees call either Kelley of Shepherd.

Center To Offer Speed Reading

The Merrimack Valley Center for Professional Services, Inc., A Psychological Center, announces the offering of a ten week Speed Reading Course, open to the public, running from Oct. 29, through Jan. 15. The course will be taught by Francis L. Keane, Ph.D. Dr. Keane was the former instructor of Speed Reading for the School of Industrial Relations in Boston.

Dr. Keane received his Bachelor's degree in education from Boston University in June of 1947, and his Master's degree in education in June of 1949 also from Boston University. He received his Doctorate in science from Calvin Coolidge College, Boston, in June 1963, and was awarded a Diplomate in The American Association of Clinical Counselors in January, 1969.

Dr. Keane is a certified School Psychologist and Adjustment Counselor in Massachusetts. He has been certified as a Professional Guidance Counselor by the National Vocational Guidance Association, and is a Diplomate in Clinical Counseling, American Association of Clinical Counselors.

The Speed Reading Course to be conducted by Dr. Keane is a highly structured series of general and technical reading exercises (developed by Science Research Associates) which are utilized via individual use of the Reading Accelerator to change old personal reading habits and rebuild new reading techniques aimed at maximum comprehension of all kinds of printed material flowing across the desks of busy people.

Small group sessions help insure much individual attention and assistance throughout the seminar. People who have attended similar courses have been able to increase their reading speed by four or five times with high level comprehension and retention. Further information concerning the Speed Reading Course can be obtained by contacting the Psychological Center.

Here is an opportunity for residents to begin a stimulating course in the use of two different artistic medias. Anyone interested may register at the Recreation/Community School Department office at 36 Bartlett St. between 8:30 and 4:30.

Audubon Film

Rough it the easy way. Watch the Audubon Wildlife film "Twentieth Century Wilderness" narrated by its producer Thomas Sterling. Mr. Sterling's film provides some spectacular glimpses into the last wilderness areas of North America. The grizzly bear, mountain lions, bighorn sheep and other residents of the wilderness are expertly captured on film for viewers to enjoy. The film will be shown at the Masconomet Regional High School in Boxford at 8 p.m. on Oct. 18.

Women's Center To Begin Series

The Andover Women's Center will begin its series of evening programs on Oct. 12 at 8:30 at the Unitarian Church.

Andover Alumni Dinner Dance Set

The Punchard-Andover Alumni Assn. will hold their Annual Dinner-Dance at the Andover Country Club on Saturday, Nov. 10. A social hour will be at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m.

Tickets will be $7.50 per person and may be obtained by calling Mike Brennan or Al Thomson.

Only 41 percent of the people employed in establishments with fewer than 100 employees were in groups with retirement expenditures, compared to 95 percent of those in establishments with 500 or more employees, according to a survey of the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

High school graduates have little trouble finding jobs in Japan; in 1970, 7.1 jobs were open for every high school graduate available to fill them, according to an article in the U.S. Department of Labor's "Monthly Labor Review."

A Sort Of Patchwork Education

Ann Merriam, a freshman from Andover, is one of several students at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, N.Y. who are establishing their own enterprises to help pay for their college education.

Last year, as a student at Abbot Academy in Andover, Ann turned a clothing fad into a lucrative business. She hopes to do the same at Skidmore.

Ann Merriam

Ann runs a patching service. "It's a rage now," she said. "One boy asked me to replace a huge purple patch on his jeans. When I took it off, I found underneath five other patches, one on top of the other and all fraying. I wound up replacing them with eleven new patches."

Mostly students from neighboring Phillips Academy, formerly a boys' school (Phillips and Abbot merged this year into Phillips Andover Academy, a co-educational school), and members of the faculty of both schools sought Ann's assistance. But her favorite piece of work is a friend's "very bleached" shorts, on which she tried a new technique involving embroidery thread.

"I sewed 13 patches just on the back of the shorts, all with different color embroidery threads. The effect was beautiful." It's a technique she continues to use.

Ann said the items she patches most frequently are pants, jackets, and shirts, and that the majority of people who come to her ask for jean material that matches their clothes.

"Jean material is popularly used for patching," she continued. "Most people want jean material on jeans since it wears better. Suede is also good."

Ann began patching three years ago but turned it into a business last year.

"I just reached a point when I needed money in order to go to Skidmore. There's a lot of work involved and I already do quite a bit of mending, in addition to designing and sewing my own clothes."

Ann works part-time in the language laboratory at St. Peter's High School in Saratoga Springs. She is the daughter of Mrs. Donald Merriam, director of the language laboratories at Phillips Andover Academy.

Ann is planning to advertise her patching service to the Skidmore community but "since I'm not always in my room, I need to find a place on campus where students and faculty can drop off their orders as well as pick them up when ready."

Adept as sewing, embroidery, dress designing, and pattern making, Ann plans on majoring in studio art at Skidmore with an eye on a career in fashion designing. However, she also devotes free time to a growing interest in architecture and cooking.

"I love to rearrange houses," she said. "I've drawn plans for homes I'd like to live in and for ones I've seen and would like to change."

Recently she drew up plans for remodeling the second floor of a home her family owns in Maine.

"My mother liked it so well

she's going to try it."

Last summer, Ann created casseroles and various desserts at a seafood restaurant in Camden, Maine. Her specialties at home are Greek, Chinese and Italian foods.

Beware of the man who has honest motives, but habitually insists on dishonest practices.

Ski Team Training Underway

By Carrie Smotrich

The champion Andover Buddy Werner League Ski Team starts its 1973-1974 season this Sunday, Oct. 14 with a practice at the high school field. Coach Ted Sutton will lead the racers through a program, which will include a soccer game, calisthenics and jogging. Coach Sutton will also outline a home exercise program designed to get the racers into top condition for the upcoming season. All Andover racers (new and old) will meet at the high school at 10 a.m.

Thanks to the efforts of incoming chairman Ed Hostetter, Bud Eaton and Ted Sutton, the 1973-1974 race season will offer an even more exciting program for the young skiers. Local BWL team activities have been coordinated with BWL activities throughout Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Hampshire and Vermont. Accordingly, this coming year we will hold our usual Eastern Mass. Championship at Waltham, followed by a regional championship at King Ridge in New London, N.H.

The final racing schedule for the 1973-1974 season is currently being finalized and will be announced in this column.

By expanding BWL activities we feel that the program will provide a challenge to racers in all age categories. As in past years, we would like to ask all parents to encourage their younger children to compete in the 8 and under BW race group. It is because of the support of this 8 and under group that Andover is building a strong team which should keep the Eastern Mass. championship in Andover.

Basketball Clinic On Saturday

Andover High varsity basketball Coach Wil Hixon will conduct the second-and-final free hoop clinic this Saturday from 9-10:45 a.m. at the high school gym.

The clinic is open to all youngsters between the ages of 8 and 15. Hixon will demonstrate various basketball skills, and then the kids will be divided into groups to work on each skill.

The Andover Recreation Department is hosting the clinic, and coaches of the Andover Church Basketball League are assisting Hixon.

Friday evening returns to the film medium with a showing of "The Cat People" at 8 p.m., a horror and science fiction film directed by Jacques Tourneur. We hope that you will help celebrate the library's anniversary by attending as many programs as possible.

United Nations Day

United Nations Day will be observed with a reception for all the foreign students in the Andover and North Andover communities on Wednesday, Oct. 24 at Memorial Hall Library. An area-wide committee is developing plans in connection with the American Field Service Club of the Andover High School and the North Andover High School. Entertainment will begin at 7 p.m. and continue until 9 p.m. and will include singing, dancing and physical feats representative of the cultures of many different lands. The townspeople are invited to attend the festivities and to greet the students who have come to study in the area. Phillips Academy and Andover High School will be represented, as well as Brooks School and the North Andover High School.

Film Program

Tonight (Oct. 11) at 8 p.m., "Explorations in Film" will have a special speaker, Ms. Rebecca Fulginiti. Ms. Fulginiti is a member of the English Department at Masconomet Regional High School where she runs a program "for kids who hate school." Entitled "Living English," this is a film-based program which is designed to develop values and objective-thinking. Ms. Fulginiti will show two films, "The Sixties" and "Lonely Boy," the latter a documentary on Paul Anka at the height of his fame. These films will be the basis for her discussion, "Rock Culture Revolution: Film as a Vehicle for Social

Study of Youth."

Piano Plea

Does anyone have an upright piano they would like to donate to the library? There are many musical events that require a piano and the library would like to be able to include these in its schedule. Please call 475-6960 and let us know if we could take your piano off your hands (we will move it) and put it to good use in our programs.

Children's Room By Jan Johnson

We're celebrating Memorial Hall Library's Centennial too! While the adults are upstairs having their Open House, on Sunday, Oct. 14, from 2 to 4, we will be serving punch and cookies in the Children's Room. It's a party just for you.

Later that week (on Wednesday, Oct. 17 at 7), Mr. Frank Dalton from Newburyport will present his own stories for children. This is a unique experience because he illustrates his stories with slides and a taped background. The kids in Newburyport highly recommend this event to which everyone in grades K-6 is invited. Admission is, of course free. Please meet us in the Children's Room.

Miss Karen Meek, Children's Librarian in Reading, will lead an evening of folksinging on Thursday, Oct. 18 at 7. She will be sharing your favorite folksongs, teaching some new ones, and perhaps you'll have a chance to make up words to some more. It promises to be fun, so bring your friends and join us. Everyone in grades 1-6 is invited but you can come if you are older than that too. Again, meet us in the Children's Room.

Remember that this Saturday, Oct. 13 at 10:30 is the first meeting of Let's Pretend. It's our improvisational drama club that is open to everyone who likes to pretend and who is in grades 1-3.

If you're older, VIBOR is still looking for members. VIBOR (The Very Important Board of Review) is a club for kids in grades 4-6 who want to have a voice in what books (and records, etc.) we buy for the Children's Room. VIBOR also reads and reviews the books we do buy and indicates its approval of these books by applying a VIBOR seal. VIBOR meets for the time being on Wednesday afternoons at 3:45. Come to a meeting! Try us - you'll like us! (If Wednesday is a bad day but you really are interested, talk to Mrs. Johnson at the Children's Room

THE TOWNSMAN, OCTOBER 11, 1973

David Sullivan has painted large canvasses before but his newest work of art in progress is as big as the side of a house. It is, in fact, his own house.

After four years of renting a big old duplex at 92-94 North Main Street, David and Camellia Sullivan bought it last winter, got a building permit, and began renovating inside and out.

PACKING STORAGE - LOCAL & LONG DISTANCE MOVING

Whatever the reason - - maybe the influence of an art store and an art gallery across the street started it - - several houses in that North Main Street neighborhood are losing their asbestos shingles and emerging as handsome old town houses.

David Sullivan, a fulltime award-winning, practicing artist who teaches oils, water colors and life drawing in the Recreation Community Schools evening program, is the latest to boost this trend.

Sullivan has had the wall paperer's brush in his hand more than the water color brush this past summer, redoing his rental apartment, and transforming the exterior of the solid old double house.

Off came the asbestos shingles, some siding was replaced, and now some of the Sullivan's friends are coming to paint the exterior. One of them is taking a David Sullivan painting home as pay.

But it is the spacey new white studio on the third floor of the big house, exposed to good north light, that shows that the artist is putting his family roots down in Andover.

Sullivan first appeared in the TOWNSMAN two years ago when one of his water colors won first prize in a national show at New York's prestigious National Academy of Design. It was an abstract from another painting of his daughter Marisa, now a student at Doherty School. The Sullivans also have a son, David Ashley, 5. Camellia Sullivan works just across the street at the framing shop of the Andover Gallery of Art.

The Andover artist's work has been shown in Boston, New Mexico, Maine and Rockport, as well as Andover, where an exhibit of his work at the Andover Gallery of Art, mostly oils, was almost sold out on opening night.

Absorption with papering and painting has slowed down

Sullivan's artistic output. Does he regret this? "Not really, it is helping my understanding of three-dimensional structures."

Sullivan thinks that ultimately his own artistic work will benefit from the experience.

"An artist can't keep on working without backing off a bit to start fresh. It helps to stop for a while. Then when you go back to take up a painting again, at first you don't see how you can continue with old paintings. It's like finishing someone else's work. But then you begin, and you find you bring a new perspective that works its way into the painting."

Comments On Evaluation Of Summer Program Costs

By Gary C. Ralph

At the conclusion of our summer program, I wrote that a cost analysis of the Recreation / Community School Department's expenditures would be done to determine the effectiveness and value of all our programs. We are now near completion of that task and I would like to comment on several of our findings.

First let me describe to you the method we used to arrive at our figures. Activities such as tennis, arts and crafts and gymnastics were offered on a regular basis at different locations to different age groups throughout the summer program, thereby providing us with cost comparisons for each age group in each activity at each location.

Tennis lessons, for example, had a ratio of one instructor to 12 students at both elementary and secondary level and cost approximately .92 per student per hour for both levels. Another comparison can be made with the arts and crafts program. The elementary program cost the Department approximately .30 per student per hour and the secondary program cost approximately .89 per student per hour. The difference in cost exists because the attendance was considerably less per hour (10 secondary to 35 elementary) and the materials were more complex and expensive in the secondary program.

It is readily apparent that the more restricted the interest area the more expensive the program. We found a range of .17 per student per hour for woodworking classes to 2.03 per student per hour for photography. Our median cost for an interest area was .65 per student per hour. Our program had an average of 21 students in each area, per hour in classes and 35 children per hour on the playgrounds and 135 people per hour at our evening group activities. The program in its entirety served 2,921 people in eight weeks. This includes playground, movies, concerts, trips, etc.

As we begin now to prepare the Recreation / Community School Department budget for the coming year all of this information is of immeasurable value to us. We have had a year's experience with our Community School program.

To Present 'Cactus Flower'

For its first production of the 1973-74 season the Andover Community Theatre (ACT) will present "Cactus Flower." This is the story of a love quadrangle with several other characters thrown into the cauldron for an extra measure of spice.

Julian, a woman chasing dentist, is trying to seduce Toni, his flighty young girl friend, all the while claiming to be married. His secretary Stephanie, is a reserved woman who is in love with Julian. To further the mix-up is Igor, a young man in the apartment next to Toni, but who is in Toni's room more often than his own. Add to this conglomeration Harvey who will chase anything he thinks he can catch.

Appearing as Julian is Kent Schroeder, a newcomer to ACT but not to theater. Kent has appeared with the Del-Ray Beach Players in "Tunnel of Love," "Golden Fleece," "Auntie Mame," "Present Laughter" and "Dial M for Murder."

Pat Prentice as Toni, Lyn Hartwick as Stephanie, Rick Cannon as Igor and George Doran as Harvey are all familiar to Andover, each having appeared in one or more of ACT's previous productions.

Completing the cast are Peter Jako, Joan Roy, Gail Demaso, Sharon Fay and Michael Doran.

This, the fifth production of ACT will be performed at West Junior High on Nov. 2 and 3 and Nov. 9 and 10.

ACT is sponsored by the Andover Recreation/Community School Department.

LWV Plans Review Of Positions

The League of Women Voters will present a series of units titled, "This is your Life," Massachusetts League of Women Voters. The units will review the past State positions of the League.

Monday, Oct. 15, a meeting will be held at noon at the home of Bev Haggerty, 25 Westwind Road.

On Tuesday morning, Oct. 16, the meeting will begin at 9:15 a.m. at Christ Church. Babysitting is available for the Tuesday meeting. Please call Harriet Abouse, 175 High Plain Road at least two days before the event.

Thursday's meeting will be at 7:45 p.m. Oct. 18, at the home of Elaine Katz.

All interested citizens are invited to attend.

To Show Film On Loch Ness

Man, Monster and Mysteries, a Walt Disney production, will be presented Tuesday, Oct. 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the West Elementary school.

The 25-minute production is a fascinating film about the world's favorite creature, Nessie, the Loch Ness Monster. In addition to reproduced photograph and newsreels, the film reveals the existence of ancient legends and writings, better known only to Scottish highlanders.

Following the showing of the film, a general discussion will be led by two students, Keven Seifert and Thomas Mosher, who have both visited Loch Ness.

The program is under the direction of Annetta R. Freedman, media services program advisor.

Dora Adams Continues Work With Andover Aid

Andover's conscience in Clay County, Miss., is speaking again.

Andover's conscience in Clay County, Miss., is black Dora Adams, an elderly Mississippi fieldworker who works on to help the poor in her community to help themselves, years after other civil rights workers have given up, or left the unfinished struggle to paid government agencies.

ACEO - Andover Citizens for Equal Opportunity - is asking Andover citizens to contribute again to the Dora Adams Fund, which has been the sole steady financial support for Dora Adams' work among those of her own people who have even less material goods than she owns, and not near her amount of faith. These people draw on Dora's indomitable spirit for the courage to challenge their circumstances and help themselves. While Andover's gifts have not been monumental, they amounted to $1,500 last year. This was all the more important since a church in Wisconsin that used to send a small amount of money lost interest, and stopped.

"We must raise at least $1,300 this year," says Mrs. Susan Lloyd, in charge of ACEO's Dora Adams Fund. "By Sept. 1, we had completely exhausted our funds for Dora."

How long does Dora, now 61, plan to keep on with her work among the poorest people of Clay County? Let her speak for herself, quoted from a recent letter to Mrs. Lloyd:

"Yes, Sue, I plan to carry on as long as I am able because there is so much to do. We really have just hit the surface. I know it will be impossible for me to accomplish as much as I would like, but pray God I can do as much as I can."

"The Sewing Center is operating" (Part of Dora's Self-Help Center, the Sewing Center provides the essential part-time employment for mothers of families trying to live on Mississippi's subsistence welfare payments) - "though not on a large scale because presently I am working with the young people, trying to help them with their habit (drugs) - you are aware of this problem which has overshadowed our good works. We now have Title I, Day Care and Head Start. Employment is up, but our most serious problem now is housing for the very poor (Sue, the Fifth Street Renewal Program is bad - some people have lost their homes and have no place to go) and care for the elderly and convalescent."

"Sue, I have worked for the last month on one of the most interesting projects of all my work. I'll make it as short as I can. It is this old lady; no relatives, 74 years old, receives $132 per month SS and Welfare, way undernourished. She lived in the worst house in Clay County alone, owned by a white landlord. It was cold, the floors had rotted, it rained on her, the house was filled with rats. I had challenged the Welfare Dept. and the Housing Authority to do something about it for more than a year, but there was nothing done."

"Finally," Dora reports, "I was blessed to find a house with plumbing and electricity and warm. We have moved her in. She is so happy. In the old place, the rats had begun to bite her. I got the Welfare Dept. to raise her check."

"There are some more problems, but this was most serious. I am still very busy helping with the Sewing Center, and getting the really poor people food stamps and welfare. Also I am Chairman of the Advisory Board for Legal Services in this area. I have my church and my family. I am still on the go."

That was July, 1973. Since then, ACEO's funds for Dora Adams have run out. The National Council of Churches, which sends a small gift, reports that Dora is running a $10,000 operation on $2,700 a year. No wonder she signs some of her letters "for economy and justice!" But despite Dora's efforts, money remains a perennial problem.

"I feel like I'm now getting to the real source of our problem. The trouble is, the crooks get all the money. We are organized very well to be poor people, but when you are honest, you just don't get hold of money very fast."

Checks to ACEO for the Dora Adams Fund may be sent to Mrs. Robert Lloyd, 1 Highland Wayside, Andover. Mrs. Lloyd reports that anyone interested in seeing the letters, transcripts of welfare hearings, etc. by which Dora reports her work and her stewardship of Andover funds, is welcome to call the Lloyds.

Anyone who listens to Andover's conscience in Clay County, Miss., will also hear this, Dora's response to help from Andover: "Thank God and you all for all you are doing. May his richest blessing continue to be yours."

Most men don't realize they are going down hill until they catch the whistle of the wind.

Three in a row and six more to go!

The countdown towards a perfect 1973 season is now well underway for the Andover High grid team, which made Austin Prep its third straight victim by a lopsided 35-6 score in the home opener before 1,300 fans last Saturday at Eugene V. Lovely Field.

Hailed as a big showdown battle and the collision of two lengthy winning streaks, it turned out to be a laugher.

We had asked Austin Coach

Larry Klimas just prior to the game how he felt about it, and his on-ward reply was "apprehensive."

The apprehension soon turned to disappointment as he viewed the mismatch on the field.

The win extended the Golden Warriors' two-year victory skein to 11 straight, and pushed Coach Dick Collins' troops into sole possession of the top spot in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

The loss snapped a two-season, 11-game Austin win streak and dropped the Cougars' overall ledger to 2-1.

Billerica is the only other undefeated team in Conference play, standing at 2-0 after a shaky 6-0 win over Tewksbury on Saturday.

Warriors Romp To 35-6 Win

Offense Clicks

Andover finally shook the cobwebs from its offense, and the AHS eleven looked like a well-oiled machine against the younger, smaller Austin crew.

The Warriors managed wide statistical spreads in first downs (16-7), yards rushing (268-14), yards passing (114-107), interceptions (3-0) and total yardage (382-121). The Prep's lone edge came in scrimmage plays, 74-65.

The well-balanced Andover attack featured touchdowns by four different players, three of whom were scoring for the first time in their varsity careers.

Junior quarterback Jeff Winters, who split the duties with Mark Sweetser during the afternoon, led the way with two TDs on second half runs of 40 and seven yards. The two tallies gave Jeff the team scoring leadership with 18 points overall.

Scoring for the first time were sophomore split end Glenn Verrette, junior halfback Steve Fabiani and defensive lineman Bob St. Amand.

Verrette caught the only pass thrown his way during the game by Mark Sweetser, snatching it between two Austin defenders and pouring on the speed to outrace the duo to paydirt. (Shades of Seero to Farnham).

The lightning swift pass-and-run TD play covered 46 yards, and was the final score of the game midway through the fourth quarter.

Fabiani notched what proved to be the winning touchdown on the final play of the first period, taking a pitchout and skirting the right side from 11 yards out.

St. Amand, who blocked the punt that Ray Pizarro ran back for a TD against Wilmington, opened the scoring by pouncing on a bad center snap on an attempted punt from the Cougars' endzone.

The Golden Warriors' output was completed by junior Pete Reilly, who can't play quarterback like Scott Seero but who sure can kick with similar consistency.

Reilly toed consecutive PATs following each score, and he now is 6-for-6 during the season in that department.

Defense Shines

The game opened with Austin getting nowhere on its first series of downs. The Prep tried to run against Andover, and you just can't do that on the Warriors' interior line.

For example, Ray Pizarro took part in 17 tackles during the game while Frank Kenney was in on 15, St. Amand and Dave Ashton 14 apiece and Bill Haskell 10.

Co-Capt. Jeff Towne's saved for last because he "lived" in the Prep backfield. Jeff set up camp there early in the game, and consistently renewed acquaintances with Austin sophomore quarterback Chuck Gaudet.

The Cougars, who soon switched tactics and ended up throwing 33 passes, had minus-9 yards rushing in the first half. Only a 17-yard scamper by Gaudet late in the game against the reserves put Austin on the plus side.

The initial break of the game came at 6:30 of the opening stanza when the Prep's Steve Webster dropped back to punt.

Moments earlier a high snap on Webster's first punt try had him swallowing turf as Mark Hamilton, Dana Gould and Pizarro buried him.

Now he was standing at his own 7, and another big snap sailed through his hands and into the endzone where St. Amand covered it.

Reilly booted the conversion for a 7-0 Andover spread.

Towne Intercepts

The second touchdown was set up three plays later when Towne intercepted a Gaudet aerial at the Andover 37. A clipping penalty on the play back-tracked the ball to the 22 yard line, but six running plays later the Warriors hit paydirt.

Bob McCarthy busted for two yards and then sophomore speedster Bill Alexander zig-zagged 40 yards around left end to the Austin 36.

Fabiani took a pitchout for 11 yards, Alexander sprinted 10 more and Sweetser ate up five to the Prep 11 yard line.

Fabiani got the call here and navigated the right end for the touchdown. Reilly again split the uprights to make it 14-0.

There was no scoring in an error-filled second quarter, but Andover did mount a pair of threats.

Bill Kenney, who intercepted a pass earlier, pounced on a blocked punt by Towne at the Austin 17-yard line.

Short bursts by Winters, Fabiani and Sweetser brought the leather to the three yard line where a fourth - and - goal at that point cropped up.

Winters tried an option pass to Alexander, but the ball was overthrown.

AHS retained possession following a punt at the Cougars' 44 with time running out in the half. Winters immediately unloaded a 30-yard pass to Alexander, and followed with an 11-yarder to George Stedman. However, time expired with the ball at the 3 again.

Exchange Fumbles

Midway through the third quarter the Warriors advanced to the Austin 11 yard line with the aid of a facemask infraction.

The rivals then exchanged fumbles with Andover retaining possession at the Cougars' 14 yard line.

Fabiani cracked five yards on two carries and Alexander added seven more on a pair of pitchouts. Fabiani went over for the apparent TD, but an illegal procedure penalty pushed the ball back to the seven.

Winters followed with an up - the - middle jaunt and he scored standing up. Reilly kicked the extra point for a 21-0 bulge at 5:42 of the third canto.

A Bill DeLuca interception killed Austin's only real movement of the third quarter, and early in the final period the desperate visitors surrendered the ball on downs at the Andover 48.

Winters proceeded to slice off tackle for 12 yards to the Cougars' 40, and on the next play Jeff followed several blockers to the right side and picked his way through the entire defense for his third seasonal touchdown.

Reilly's almost automatic conversion kick upped the AHS spread to 28-0.

Austin Scores

Austin's Dan Agati set up the lone Cougars' six-pointer by pouncing on a Warriors' fumble at the Andover 25.

Gaudet, who completed only nine of those 33 passes to his own men (three to AHS), quickly hit Glenn Adduoi for 16 yards to the nine.

After Brian Flannery batted down one attempted TD pass to Adduoi, Gaudet hit Bill Kiley in the endzone to spoil the shutout.

Webster's try for the conversion was blocked by Haskell and Ashton, keeping the score 28-6 with 3:28 remaining in the game.

Sweetser-to-Verrette

The Prep tried an onside kick, but Ashton was on the spot to cover the ball at the Andover 49.

Junior Craig Eosefow, who did some fine running, zipped five yards to the Austin 46.

Two plays later Sweetser spotted Glenn Verrette over - the - middle, and drilled a perfect pass between two defenders at the 35 yard line.

Verrette made the grab and had no trouble turning on the burners for the touchdown.

Reilly's fifth PAT kick made it 35-6.

The Golden Warriors threatened one final time following a punt by Gaudet to the Andover 44.

After an illegal procedure penalty pushed AHS back five yards, junior fullback Dave Tallini exploded 44 yards to the AHS DEFENSIVE PLAYERS who have had a big part in the Golden Warriors' 3-0 record to date are (l-r) Frank Kenney, Bob Burrow and Co-Capt. Ray Pizarro. Pizarro, for example, was in on 17 tackles in last Saturday's win over Austin Prep. Burrow has been cited by Coach Dick Collins for his hard tackling. In three games the AHS defense has limited the opposition to 100 total yards rushing and 17 points.

Exploration Of Faith At South

South Church in Andover is having a Faith Exploration Event this Sunday, Oct. 14. Sponsored by the Diaconate of the church, it will begin with a light breakfast at 7 a.m. and conclude with worship at the 10:30 service. Faith Exploration is an operation which has been developed by the United Church of Christ in response to the faith crisis in the local churches. This crisis has been variously described as restlessness with the traditional language of faith, hunger for deep personal affirmations, and uneasiness over the tension between professed belief and actual behavior. Faith Exploration is a gathering of church people to share in small groups insights and experiences, problems and doubts - with the aim of attaining a clearer and firmer grasp of the Christian faith and its demands on disciples of today. There is really nothing new about Faith Exploration; it's as old as Bible study and prayer groups. But it does hold a promise of revitalized faith, community and commitment.

The whole congregation, and any other interested individuals are invited to come to this Faith Exploration Event. Care and activities for infants through elementary school aged children will be provided.

Beacon Hill Observations

By Bill Kirtz
"Terribly dangerous."
"Nothing new." Or a fine way to give students and parents more say about their schools.

These are some of the widely varying reactions to a just-passed bill opening the door to new courses in the state's schools.

The new measure, which will go into effect in the 1974-75 school year, requires local school systems to offer any course which parents of 20 or more children request.

There's an "if" to this, as Massachusetts Teachers'
Association consultant Sheridan
Carey points out.

If the facilities and the faculty aren't available, he says, the course doesn't have to be given.

This would seem to rule out the worst fears of opponents of the bill, who have predicted that Underwater Basket-Weaving and Sanskrit might be foisted on already hard-pressed school budgets.

But Bertram Holland, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Secondary School Principals' Association, calls the bill a legislative move to "dictate" what schools should teach.
And this area, he adds, is something the School Committee and no one else should dominate.

"We'll wait and see what surfaces," Mr. Holland says.
"School Committees still have a certain degree of jurisdiction in determining whether a teacher is qualified to teach a course."

Wayland School Superintendent William Zimmerman is one of many administrators who sees the measure as a "terribly dangerous" way of inflating school budgets without improving the quality of education.

He says that one year of, say,
Russian isn't much good and that new courses should be planned in long sequences and in conjunction with other offerings.

The law was passed quietly -- so quietly that Massachusetts Association of School Committees' executive director Alton Cavacchi doesn't know its provisions.

"Nothing new" is his verdict -- when in fact there's plenty new about it.

For a long time, School Committees have been required to consider parents' requests for new courses. But only this legislation requires School Committees to act on them.

"We don't hear much about it and we don't get any flack on it at all," says Mr. Cavacchi -- something which may change quickly as parents across Massachusetts prepare to file their new course petitions by the August 1, 1974 deadline.

And some flack, in Mr. Carey's opinion, wouldn't be a bad thing.

"It's probably an infringement to a small degree" on School Committee powers, he concedes,
"but the benefits to students may be worth it."

There's been a "subtle discouragement" in many communities of parents and students with ideas for new courses, Mr.
Carey feels.

Now, he hopes, the new law will encourage these groups to pool their suggestions for their own good -- and Massachusetts school systems'.

employers, has a payroll of about 47,500 employees in Massachusetts operating area.

Costello says employees of New England Telephone,
Western Electric, Bell
Laboratories and the Long Lines
Department of AT&T were paid a total of $616 million in the five-state area last year.

State and local taxes paid by the Bell System last year amounted to nearly $110 million in the five states.

COMPOST SHREDDER - GRINDER

MODELS PRICED FROM $149.95

Produce rich compost using nature's own sources. Turn tree prunings into topsoil mulch for shrubbery and flower beds.
Grind leaves and other garden waste to decompose quickly into valuable humus fertilizer, thus re-cycling waste organic materials back to the soil. This positively improves soil conditions and helps in growing stronger and more healthful crops. This is the method used by professional gardeners the world over; good compost means a good garden. The finer your materials are ground up, the more quickly they decompose in compost, and the neater they look as top mulch. These units can also reduce the volume of your rubbish by shredding or grinding paper, tin and aluminum beverage cans, cardboard or plastic bottles, and even the limbs up to 1 1/2" in diameter.

We also have a complete line of lawn vacuums, leaf blowers, and wood shredder-chippers. Models for home and commercial use.

Newspaper Week

National newspaper week is being observed this week, an event which coincides with some rather important events in the life of the TOWNSMAN.

Newspaper week is observed annually as an occasion to note the benefits of a free press in keeping our society free and preserving liberty.

We feel that recent events at the national level have focused sufficient attention on the role of the press in protecting a free society.

The press as the foundation of free choice has performed its duties well in reporting to the American public the irregularities of the past Presidential campaign and other governmental wrongs.

The same function has been performed in this state, as well.

Rather than focus on this, we would prefer to note with some significance the fact that the TOWNSMAN this week began its 87th year.

In the year just passed, your local community newspaper, attained some significant accomplishments.

The newspaper moved to new quarters and began production on the most modern newspaper production machinery available.

Among the first weekly newspapers in New England to convert to the offset method of producing the weekly issue, our new plant was furnished a year ago with modern, rapid, type setting equipment in the form of a Photon Pacesetter.

The new equipment has allowed us to expand our operations, to increase the number of pages as well as expand our coverage. A year ago, we began publication of the North Andover Townsman, a weekly publication for residents of that community.

The combination of events of this past year has resulted in increased number of pages per week, increased advertising lineage and a significant jump in circulation.

All of this, of course, is possible due to the continued interest in our product and appearance which is shared by you, our readers.

In this, our 87th year in Andover and second in North Andover, we stand determined in our efforts to constantly improve our publication to earn your continued support.

Salaries

Doesn't it seem about time that someone, maybe the school committee, for instance, had a look at the town's educational administrative structure?

It seems only a few short weeks ago that we commented on the fact that administrative costs seemed to be on the way down, what with a new structure proposed and adopted by the school board.

All of this designed to cut costs and still provide a better than average school system.

Now, come the administrator's salaries which give every indication of Andover having a gold-plated administration.

While the school committee submerges itself in the burning issue of a smoking policy for the public schools, it is giving approval to an administrative salary structure which will shortly reduce taxpayer's dollars to ashes before we get to an education program.

That salary account at the administrative level, could well make smokers of non-smokers just for the tranquil effect of the weed in perusing those figures starting with the superintendent at $30,363, who by the way has provisions for two assistants, and working on down the ladder.

There seems to be little consideration of the taxpayer in such a salary structure.

There is a ratio provision and it is apparently automatically approved.

There is increasing pressure to remove the fiscal autonomy from school committees in this state. Such a move has both merit and fault.

But, such action in granting these new salaries to Andover's administrators certainly provides a boost to giving some control of school budgets back to the public that provides them.

Sorry fact of the matter is that for the money being paid out at the top, we do not see any earth-shaking results from our school system -- and that is what really hurts.

Off The Top Of The Desk

Ever try to enjoy a holiday weekend on the highway free of idiotic drivers?

Assumption is it is an impossibility.

Sunday evening in the height of traffic on 93 in Manchester, long lines of vehicles were moving at a slow but steady pace, when, per usual, someone pulled out of line and started a third line in the breakdown lane.

Several cars followed, some loaded with youngsters skimming the edge of the highway in a rush to get nowhere, yet jeopardizing the lives and safety of other motorists.

Traffic to the north and west of Boston was heavy as motorists inspected the Autumn foliage last weekend and this coming week promises to be even better.

In most areas, the trees seemed to be approaching their peak in the lower sections of Vermont and New Hampshire and in the Berkshires areas.

By this weekend the overall New England area should be ablaze with its usual Autumn brilliance.

Unknowningly a small town in Indiana found the secret to getting water bills paid on time.

Water was shut off in a section of the community for an extended period one day, to repair a leak in the system.

Residents, delinquent in their payments, scurried to the water department office to pay up and return the service, all the time unaware that the disruption was perfectly normal.

Honestly folks, this is the football season and fans will be able to concentrate on the pigskin follies within the next week or so. Baseball playoffs should be over and World Series complete within the next week or so.

Then, sports fans can concentrate on such things as football, hockey and basketball for the remainder of the winter, or at least until late January when baseball returns to the scene.

We're not about to jinx the Golden Warriors but we sure hope they continue their winning ways.

With a clean slate this season the club would certainly be Greater Lawrence champs, along with league titlist. Still to be met on the schedule are Lawrence High and Central Catholic, a formidable task, after the Methuen clash this Saturday.

Sports fever can have a dangerous side effect warns the Cleansing Plant Owners of Massachusetts. Countless hot dog-munching fans have ruined their clothes through reckless use of mustard.

C.P.O. explains that a mustard stain is one of the hardest spots to remove, especially if it remains on your clothes for nine innings or the four quarters of a football game.

What looks like a little yellow spot is really a combination of salt, spices, oil, vinegar, tannin, turmeric, and possibly oxidized oil. The Association's stain scientists explain this means a professional must use 14 steps to vanquish that stain.

The spotter lightly brushes the stain. Then he applies paint remover. Next he feathers out the wet area so it won't leave a ring.

Now he has to dry the spot and then flush it out with steam. Then he applies a mixture of detergent and acetic acid. After that he must check the fabric and dye of your "rooting outfit" to be sure it won't be damaged by a general spot remover. If not, he applies the formula.

Then he applies rust remover to reduce the tannin, followed by a peroxide or bleach. But again he must test. Now he thoroughly flushes clean the area, feathers it, dries it with an air gun -- and it's gone.

So be careful with your mustard, suggests C.P.O. and if an accident occurs, take your clothes to a professional before the next game.

Down the Years with The Townsman

Punchard Elms, the residence of J. Warren Barnard is being greatly improved by the addition of wide piazzas and a completely new coat of paint. It is handsome in appearance.

About 100 feet of railroad track of the Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill railway, have been moved to the east side of North Main Street near the railroad bridge.

Due to the mild weather an unusual crop of raspberries is being picked in Andover this year. Usually the berries are picked in July and August, thus their appearance is most unusual this year.

The workmen are rapidly completing construction of the largest manhole in town at the corner of Bartlett and Morton Streets. It is to be 17 feet in depth.

50 Years Ago - October, 1923

Omar P. Chase, well-known poultry farmer, was a big winner at the Brockton fair, carrying off several first prizes with his Golden Wyandottes.

Scrib Adams is the hero of Punchard's 20-0 win over Reading last Saturday. Adams had one touchdown romp of 50 yards and several long gainers.

Malcolm Lundgren was elected president, Walter Gordon vice president, Irving Whitcomb secretary, and Richard Douglas treasurer of the freshman class at Punchard High school.

"Ant Communities and Their Government," is the theme for the Natural History Society meeting this Thursday.

25 Years Ago - October, 1948

The Registry of Motor Vehicles has commended the town for its driver safety program conducted in the high school.

Superintendent of Schools Sherman reports that the town treasury can expect $25,000 from the state this year through aid to education programs.

Several neighbors appeared at a board of appeals hearing this week to protest a petition for a variance to convert a house at the riding stable on Salem Street to four apartments.

The parking meter account this week received $106 from collections. There were 110 of the 195 meters used.

"Facing Soviet Russia," will be the topic for Col. Charles P. Howard, Middlesex County treasurer, when he speaks before the Andover Service club Thursday. Frank Brigham will preside.

10 Years Ago - October, 1963

The fire department, making its annual inspection of schools, is accompanied by "Sparky" an animated mascot, who is contributing to the education program on fire safety.

The recreation committee will have several recommendations for consideration when a new high school is planned.

Merrimack college students are assisting the Andover Board of Trade with a downtown parking availability study.

A new fire station and school sites were examined last Saturday by the Land Acquisition committee which viewed five locales.

The dropout rate at Andover High school is far lower than the state average, Principal Philip F. Wormwood informs the school committee.

Harvest Days Scheduled At Drumlin Farm

Autumn is the season of changing colors and the gathering of the harvest at Drumlin Farm, the Massachusetts Audubon Society's turn of the century working farm in Lincoln. Each year Harvest Days are celebrated on the first two Saturdays of October, the second day of festivities this year to be held on Saturday, Oct. 16 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Visitors at the farm on this special day will have a chance to watch demonstrations of traditional farm skills - cider pressing, candle dipping, a sheep dog at work and a blacksmith at his trade. Colonial crafts and those enjoying a revival will be represented; spinning and dyeing, pottery making, quilting and weaving will be demonstrated at various times throughout the festivities. Special emphasis will be given to natural foods. There will be a health foods kitchen and demonstrations in breadmaking, beekeeping and how to find and prepare edible wild plants. Hayrides and an array of contests take place all day. Test your abilities at corn husking, log sawing and potato digging, or bring along a home grown scarecrow - it may be a prize winner!

Harvest Day also features films, exhibits and live animal interviews in addition to the farm's regular family of domestic and wild animals. Admission fees of one dollar for adults and 50 cents for children help meet the day to day expenses of the farm. Hot dogs, donuts, cider, and coffee will be on sale all day. Drumlin Farm is located on route 117 in Lincoln, 10 minutes by car from route 128 and 5 minutes on foot from Lincoln's commuter rail station.

Regular habits are no earthly good to the man whose habits are all bad.

Miles vs Minutes

Commuting distance is an important consideration when moving to a new location. With today's super highways, you might commute to a job 20 miles away in less time than it would take from an inner-city location of only five miles.

Plan to make your new home in a town where it is only so many MINUTES, rather than MILES from your job. You may be passing up some marvelous home-buying opportunities: lower taxes and better schools in distant suburbs - only because you THOUGHT the towns were too far away. Miles v.s. Minutes! Makes sense . . .

representing Nicholas Fitzgerald who sold the land to Cressey-Dockham, called the division of payment "as outlined, unacceptable," adding that the sewer would have to go another 700 feet south from Fitzgerald property to Cressey-Dockham.

"When Cressey-Dockham was considering a move to Andover," he said, "the feeling was that Andover would pick up more of the sewer and water. This is not a large item when compared to the return to the town."

"This doesn't do the town much justice with its enticement to industry," he went on. "It's a pretty small amount to pay -- $15,000 -- for $250,000 a year in taxes."

"We have never engaged in a haggle of returns versus what we would throw into the pot," Greenberg said later.

Selectman George Heseltine said that Fitzgerald had been through development before and was aware of "betterments," and Selectman Edmund J. Sullivan, Jr., added that Fitzgerald was warned in March that there would be considerable expense. "To come in here now with such a sense of outrage is after the fact," he said.

"We are gentle people," Oppenheim returned. "We were miffed from the beginning. We were hoping interim meetings would have remedied the situation."

"We're just here to tell you how we feel," he added. "We want to work together and if there's nothing else to do but go along with it, then we will. We want to come to Andover. We think we can help Andover and Andover can help us. Will you try to understand our point of view?"

While taking no other action on the matter, the Selectmen indicated they would discuss it further among themselves.

Off The Top

(family Vespidae), so abundant this fall, and though beneficial to plants as pollenizers in the spring and summer, can raise a hob around gardens in the fall.

The wasp is a cicada killer, nearly 1 1/4 inches long, black with a yellow-banded abdomen. It digs deep, slanting holes an inch in diameter in lawns, on banks, terraces, according to Robert A. Bartlett.

The wasp paralyzes a cicada with a sting, drags it into the hole and deposits eggs on it. Within a few days the young hatch and feed on the cicada. When abundant, some lawns are peppered with holes and piles of earth. Best control: Fill the hole with chlordane dust.

The giant hornet, an inch long with orange markings on its black abdomen, gnaws bark from lilacs, willows and other trees and shrubs. It then uses the bark to build nests in trees or buildings. Painting the trunk and lower stems of lilac, boxwood, rhododendron and laurel with an insecticide will fend off the hornets and prevent girdling.

The yellow jacket, a much smaller bee is black with yellow markings, can be a pest, bores holes in the ground for its nest, eventually bringing forth a little swarm. All bees are armed with a powerful, venomous sting. Some people are allergic to the sting and it is wise in severe cases to see a physician. Spray holes with an insect killing dust.

Historians To Meet Thursday

The Andover Historical Society will hold its first regular meeting of the year on Thursday, Oct. 18 at 8 p.m. at the Society's Amos Blanchard House, 97 Main St., Andover.

Open House At East Junior High

The annual Fall Open House will be held at Andover East Junior High School on Wednesday, Oct. 17. Parents are asked to assemble in the school auditorium promptly at 7:30 p.m. After a very brief business session, they will be asked to follow their youngsters' Wednesday schedule. Simply put, the primary objective is for parents to get a general overview of the curriculum and an opportunity to meet some of the school staff. Refreshments will be served.

School Board Agenda

Financial Goal: The School Committee is in the process of developing a financial guideline for the administration.

Teacher Attitude Survey: Last year the elementary school teachers were surveyed regarding the new programs such as math, AIRS, science and social studies. Teachers will make a presentation to the School Committee regarding the results of that survey.

Educational Goals For The Year: The School Committee will discuss the directions for the year.

School Committee Subcommittees: Last year assignments were made to individual school committee members. This was to chair various committees so that individual members would have more information regarding phases of the organization. These assignments will be discussed at the meeting.

Harvest Days At Topsfield

Harvest Days, a time of relaxed family fun, will be held at Massachusetts Audubon's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 13 and 14.

Sack races! Autumn's bounty! A boy-girl tug of war! Hay rides, pony rides! Children's Midway! The hay jump! Canoe jousting! A blacksmith and rock-polishing demonstration! Library exhibits! An edible wild foods demonstration plus the Country Kitchen with an opportunity for taste and gourmet delight! Something for everyone!

There will also be a continuous schedule of special programs that will take place during the day which runs from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday and from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. on Sunday. The demonstrations will include dyeing with native plants, wild animal interviews, cider-pressing, guided tours on natural history, and a slide program featuring the Sanctuary through the seasons.

The Sanctuary is making a special call for children of all ages to use their ingenuity (and some old clothes) and make a scarecrow to enter in the annual Scarecrow Judging Contest. First prize winners for each day will remain on display and welcome Sanctuary visitors through the balance of the month.

An admission will be charged as a part of this annual fund-raising event. Refreshments will be available, too. So plan to join in the fun!

Reliable Baby Sitter Is Vital

Few Massachusetts households can afford a Mary Poppins to mind the kids when the parents have an evening out. But employing a responsible baby sitter who has been given adequate instruction in child care can be the next best thing, advises the Insurance Information Institute.

Home fires took 6,600 lives in 1972. Although elderly persons suffered the highest fatality rate, the loss of little children under five years old in fires accounted for the second highest death rate, suggesting that proper care and supervision during the nighttime could have prevented many child fatalities.
